GIRL EAGLES BLAST TULIA

Coach Bob Schneider gets some of the finer points of the game explained to him by Referee Jerry Martindale during the Canyon girl Eagles basketball game with Tulia Tuesday night. The other official hides his face with his hand as if to disavow any connection with the discussion.

Read Free Throws Put Game On Ice

BY TROY MARTIN

Canyon's girl Eagles Tuesday night finally removed a formidable roadblock on their way to the state playoffs when they defeated the Tulia Hornettes 48-39.

It was the second victory in a week over the Hornettes but this one was much more decisive and on the Tulia hardwood.

The girl Eagles barely tipped the Hornettes in Canyon High School Gym Tuesday night of last week. The score was 41-39 and Coach Bob Schneider had some misgivings about his visit to the home court of the Hornettes Tuesday night.

It looked like his worst fears might come true. The girl Eagles were down 7 points at the half and at one time were down 9 points.

Not only that but Eagle scoring ace Leta Gill had been charged with three fouls by the end of the first period.

Gill's shooting was off. Almost always good for 20 points or more, she managed only six for the entire ball game.

Marilyn Read, with all the poise of a champion, stepped into the breach. She hit 11 free throws in 14 trips to the line and then sank six field goals for a total of 23 points.

The last four of her free throws, executed with the precision of a sharpshooter, came in the closing seconds of the game and iced the victory for her team.

Her performance must have been exceptionally gratifying to Coach Schneider because Marilyn normally is not a high scorer and the last of her points came under extreme pressure when her team had to have them to win.

Canyon won the game at the free throw line.

The Eagles went to the line 28 times and sank 24 for a commendable 86 percent. Kris Tucker and Lynette Slack each shot 100 percent from the free throw line — Kris with 7 for 7 and Lynnette with 4 for 4.

The Eagles and the Hornettes each hit 12 field goals. The free throws were the difference.

On defense Cameron Davis got 7 rebounds and Joy Williams 6. The Eagles had 10 turnovers for the game.

Needless to say, Coach Schneider was elated.

"I think it was the best

Heart Fund Campaign Scheduled

The Randall County Heart Association Tuesday night laid plans for a fund campaign to be conducted the last week in February.

Dr. Bill Cooper is chairman of the drive with Raymond Batenhorst acting as his assistant.

The campaign in Canyon will be conducted on a block basis while the rural portion will be conducted by mail.

Regents Meeting Scheduled Friday

The West Texas State University Board of Regents will hold its first meeting of 1971 at the Sheraton-Crest Inn in Austin at 9 a.m. Friday, Chairman Cloyce Box of Dallas said.

President James P. Cornette's report to the board includes a number of items affecting the administration and growth of the university.

The regents will be asked to hold the line on dormitory room rates but approve a slight increase in the cost of meals.

It was proposed that room and meals for residents of the airconditioned Ruth Cross Hall and Mitch Jones Hall, high-rise dormitories now under construction, be set at $440 per semester, if paid in advance, for the 1971-72 school year.

Rates for room and meals in Stafford, Conner, old part of Cousins and old part of McCaslin halls will be $380 per semester and for all other residence halls will be $400 a semester, if paid in advance.

Members of the university band will have new uniforms — maroon and white, the school's colors. The West Texas Activities Association, before its dissolution last year, donated $15,691 to the university to be used toward the purchase of 300 uniforms.

The board also will be asked to approve the purchase of carpeting for the East Dining Hall to make it comparable with the addition to the dining hall under construction. The new addition is expected to be opened after the Easter vacation period.

Fulgenzi Named To Urban Group

Commissioner John Fulgenzi Monday was named Randall County representative to the Amarillo Urban Transportation Planning and Advisory Committee.

Fulgenzi, a freshman member of Randall County commissioners court, is an engineer. He replaces Clarence Beckman who had served on the committee since 1964.

Ed Timmons, with the State Highway Department, said the purpose of the committee largely is to decide on priorities in road building.

The court decided to replace the concrete flooring in the justice of the peace room at the Randall County Court House Annex in South Amarillo.

A leaky hot water pipe has been blamed for continued cracking of walls and floor at the annex. The leak was located when a secretary at the annex walked over the floor in her bare feet and pinpointed a warm spot.

In other business, the court in executive session narrowed a field of applicants for county road superintendent from 11 to three. County Judge Woody Pond said the three will be interviewed by the court next Monday morning.

A decision on the hiring is expected after the interviews have been completed.

Judge Pond read a letter from St. Anthony's Hospital notifying the court that Mrs. Thelma Martin's bill at the hospital as a result of having been shot by Earl Head is $3,927.65.

"I suggest we send Earl Head a bill for it," said Judge Pond.

No action was taken by the court.

Head drew three years probation last week after a jury found him guilty of assault with intent to murder without malice in the shooting.

The jury also set the pun-

Less Cotton In Randall This Year

Randall County's meager cotton allotment has been cut almost a third from 1970, according to Donald F. Lloyd, executive director of the Randall County ASCS office.

Lloyd said Randall County has been allotted 1,912 acres for the 1971 crop.

He stated that set-aside requirement will not be more than 20 percent this year. Lloyd pointed out that cotton must be planted in order to earn price support payments.

Value of price support payments is 15 cents per pound times the farm payment yield times acreage planted within the farm base acreage allotment, Lloyd declar-

Enrollment Down At WT

The official registration figure for the spring semester at West Texas State University is 6,889 a drop of 129 from the 1970 spring semester.

Administrators at the school feel that one factor in the lower count is that 720 students were placed on academic suspension at the end of the fall semester. Another 714 were placed on academic probation. The latter group was eligible to register for this term.

Other factors which may have affected spring registration are the current economics situation in the area and the growth of technical schools in the Panhandle, according to Dr. Donald Cates, registrar.

Gridders Sign

Two Canyon High School football players have signed letters of intent with West Texas State Universtiy.

Mike Swatzell, a quarterback from the Eagle football squad, and John Lewis, who played defensive end and tight end for Coach Dunny Goode, signed on the dotted line Monday as their parents looked on.

Coach Joe Kerbel was elated over the signing and hopes to see other Eagles swap the livery of Canyon High School for that of West Texas State University.

"I've seen these kids grow up," commented Coach Kerbel. "I've seen them play football from junior high school through high school. Naturally, an opportunity to coach them through college is a matter close to my heart."

Coach Goode said Swatzell is still growing and probably will continue to grow for the next two or three years.

"He'll grow a lot by his junior year," said Goode. Swatzell was five foot, five two years ago and weighed 125 pounds, Coach Goode pointed out. Now he is six foot, one and weighs 170 pounds.

Swatzell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Swatzell and Lewis is the son of Mrs. Ethel Lewis.

Lewis is six foot, two and weighs 190 pounds. He was named to the all-district second team last fall. "He loves contact," commented Coach Goode. "He would be an asset to any football team."

Goode said both Lewis and Swatzell are good students.

Swatzell and Lewis were among six Canyon football players introduced at half time Monday night at the game between West Texas State and Weber State in the Amarillo Civic Center. The Canyon boys were among some 15 from all over the Panhandle.

Other Canyon boys introduced were Kelly Tinsley, Darrell Breitling, Rick Hales and Bill Byrd.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. each night. Tickets may be purchased at the door, from any cast member, or by calling 655-2168.

All seats are reserved. Tickets are $1.50 for students and $2.00 for adults.

The plot is woven around two love stories, the unexpected romance of high-living gambler Sky Masterson with the "Mission Doll," Sarah Abernathy and the fourteen year long engagement of the fast talking promoter Nathan Detroit with his perennial fiance of the Hot-Box Revue, Miss Adelaide.

Some of the songs in the musical are "I'll Know", "I've Never Been in Love Before", "Sue Me", "The Oldest

City Dads To Eye Budget Thursday

Canyon city commission will consider preliminary city budget figures Thursday night at a regular meeting in the Canyon Community Center.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 o'clock.

The prelininary budget will be presented by City Manager George Loudder.

Loudder also will request permission to advertise for bids for a depository for city funds. First National Bank of Canyon currently is the city's depository.

Depository was let last in April of 1969.

Commissioners will again consider a city-county contract on rural fire calls and county jail use. The city and couny have verbally agreed that the city will answer all rural fire calls from the south county line north to Hollywood Road in return for use of the county's communications and jail facility.

The county now contends that the city must be responsible for its equipment and volunteer firemen on rural fire calls and that the county will be responsible for any liability on jail facilities.

Frank Kimbrough Stricken Tuesday

Frank Kimbrough, associate athletic director at West Texas State University, suffered a heart attack at his home about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

At mid-week his physician at Neblett Memorial Hospital said Kimbrough's condition was satisfactory and the former Buffalo head football coach and athletic director was not in any immediate danger.

The 67-year-old Kimbrough stepped down as athletic director Sept. 1, 1969. Since that time he has been associate athletic director.

Kimbrough came to West Texas State as head coach in 1947. Three years later he guided the Buffs to their greatest season in history.

They won nine games and lost only one. They beat the Cincinnati Bearcats in the Sun Bowl that year. During

Mobile Home Park Slated

United Constructors from Oklahoma City has announced that it will build a 75-unit, multi-family mobile home park in southeast Canyon if it can get the green light from city officials.

Tim Hartman, representing the company, said it will spend $198,000 developing the mobile home park.

He said the firm will purchase about 25 acres of land and use a little more than 10 acres. The park will have a swimming pool and a community building.

A buffer fence will be erected between the park and the adjacent residential area and between the park and

FROM THE CANYON RIM

Dwight Stanford from Alberta, Canada had to go home this week after less than a month in Canyon because his socialized government fouled up.

Dwight was here to do post graduate work in the school of business at West Texas State University. He is a graduate of Brigham Young.

He had understood that the Canadian government would send him $5,200 to go to school on for the coming year.

The government sent him only $3,200. His wife is expecting and that wasn't enough to get him through. It wouldn't have been a bad deal if Dwight could have gotten a job but he's here on a student's visa and is forbidden by the US government to work during his stay.

He's going back to Canada to work a couple of years and then come back.

Dwight said many things including medicine are socialized in Canada. He said it costs $1.50 a day to be hospitalized and the doctors are on salary.

Even then the doctors don't suffer. After internship a physician draws $17,000 a year. A general practicioner with 10 years' experience draws $30,000 and specialists draw $50,000 a year and above.

* * *

Canada's income tax, with the government footing the bill for medical care and education — even sending students abroad — and other things, is no greater than in this country.

The reason for this is that the United States bears all and I mean ALL of the expense of Canada's national defense.

Our tax dollar goes to protect Dwight Stanford's home in Alberta, Canada just like it does to protect Canyon and Amarillo, Texas.

It's about time our leaders did something about this. We should tell Canada, England, Japan, France and Germany that they will share the cost of defending the free world or they had darned well better start learning to count Rubles.

Who has the most to lose if the communists overrun Southeast Asia?

Fat, affluent Japan with its transistor televisions and shining railroad trains does, that's who. And Japanese should be paying at least their share of defending Southeast Asia.

So they want the missiles off Okinawa?

Let's pull the Missiles off Okinawa and the air bases out of Japan unless the Japanese want to help pay for them in men and money.

The fact is that while our soldiers are bleeding and dying in Vietnam protecting the free world our so-called allies like Canada, England and Japan are trading with Hanoi and not only harboring our deserters but treating them like heroes.

There is no well that won't eventually run dry if it is drained enough. The same is true of our ability to police the world. In another 10 to 20 years when our wealth is expended and our will to resist is bled white who will be there to lift a finger when the red tide overruns Canada, Germany, England, Japan and all the rest?

The time has come for some straight talk with our alleged allies. We should quit trying to wheedle them into being "friends" and tell them to begin helping defend themselves or face their enemies alone.

* * *

A fan of the Canyon girl Eagles chided me Tuesday because I never run any action pictures of the guards.

Well, I tried to get some defense pictures at Tulia.

You can't hardly get there from here.

I re-discovered what I learned 20 years ago. When the offense is coming in under the basket — the only time you have a chance for a decent action shot — the opposing forwards are facing the photographer who is on the sideline and the guards normally have their backs to him.

The photographer gets some wonderful pictures of the guards' backs but they are not likely to win any prizes in photographic contests.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

Every creature on earth from the microscopic parasite to the largest mammal is occupied with the ceaseless quest for food—except man.

Man's need for food differs little from that of the lower animals; he eats even more frequently than many of them.

Because of his higher intelligence, however, man cooperates, delegates responsibility, and exchanges services to the extent that many people—especially Americans—take an abundant food supply for granted. The source of that food has been ignored so long it is almost forgotten, or — worse — despised.

Farmers do harder work for longer hours for less pay than any other workers on earth. Every bite of food we eat is the fruit of some farmer's labor.

Long hours of grueling toil leave little time or inclination for many of the arts and refinements of life. Therefore, since the dawn of time, farmers have been disparaged by the people who live on their bounty. Hicks, country bumpkins, and clodhoppers are a few of the epithets applied to toilers of the soil.

Biting the hand that feeds him has never been an admirable quality in any creature.

Americans spend 17% of their disposable income for food. Many families in India spend 97%, and still go hungry. The world average is above 50%.

Recently, when desperate farmers threatened to turn their "worthless" hogs loose on the White House lawn, they faced dire threats of punitive action. Their hostile reception was quite different from the gala welcome extended the professional poor, welfare lobbyists, and other protesters who have paraded in Washington.

How would any salaried person like to try to cope with today's inflated prices on the salary his position commanded in 1933? This is exactly what the farmer is facing—subsidy checks notwithstanding.

One's immediate reaction is that this cannot be done. Correct. How then are the farmers carrying on?

Farmers without reserve capital are borrowing money. The ones who cannot borrow are going bankrupt, and swelling the unemployment rolls.

Farming has seldom been lucrative. In addition to hard work, a farmer must be well informed on many subjects if he is to be successful. Why then would a hard-working, intelligent man choose such an occupation.

The fringe benefits.

The fresh air, the privacy, and the relative freedom the farmer enjoys make farming a way of life—not just a vocation. Few men willingly abandon it.

Roosevelt's New Deal was supposed to help the nation's farmers because they composed the foundation of our economy. It helped more than half of them right out of business.

Relatively little of the tax money appropriated for agriculture ever filters down to the farmers. The people who administer the farm bureaucracy, public school lunches, food stamps, and various other programs are all supported by the agricultural fund.

Taxpayers have every right to be angry if farmers are "paid to do nothing." In the first place, if there is a farm surplus—the theory behind our land being forced out of production—why do we continue to import millions of tons of food and fiber? We import beef rom Argentina, cotton from old Mexico, etc., that ought to be raised on U.S. farms.

Propaganda can divide and conquer us. Only the truth can make us free. The truth is that the man who does not produce his own food must expect to pay the man who does. The farmer is getting very little of the consumer's food or tax dollar. Farmers cannot survive on 67% of parity.

What happened to the 90% parity the farmer was guaranteed when he sold his birthright to the AAA in 1933? If we expect to continue eating, perhaps we should find out.

Letter To The Editor

February 1. 1971

Dear citizens,

During the past two weeks, there have been over fifty members of the cast and crew trying to sell tickets to the upcoming performances of "Guys and Dolls." We have been confronted with every excuse from "After a day at the office, I just don't feel like going out" to "I'm a football fan — never been to a high school musical" to "The children, you know" to "Haven't heard about it." So, we smiled and stepped aside, accepting these excuses, 95% of which are completely void.

Briefly, I would like to dispel these excuses, not meaning to offend anyone, but just open the eyes of a few.

"Hard day at the office," huh? I know how that goes. I go to school five days a week, work on Saturday, and play the organ at church on Sunday. Then there's the never ending task of practicing for all of the voice competitions, choir work, and the two necessary evils of eating and sleeping. Yes, it has been a hard day, but chin up — there's still rehearsal to go to!

So you're a football fan? Great! Bring your blanket and coffee. We'll welcome the cheers — I don't think you'll want to boo. And I can't believe you haven't been to a musical at CHS. It's certainly time you started because, contrary to minority belief, we do the best of everything here, and our show will be a lot better than that garbage you're watching on TV. (It's cheaper than going to the show, too!)

"The kids, you know." Frankly, I don't know. If you mean they'll get restless, I say I don't think they will when they see the colors, thugs, scenery, and hear the great music. And so what if they do? Didn't you when you were a kid? Remember: They'll be up there soon.

We've braved a lot of things for three months, including illnesses, serious accidents, bad weather, and even a burnt home. We love football, basketball, and an occasional evening at home too, but it was our job to put this show on the road and that is precisely what we are going to do. And, we will do our very best whether we play to 80 people a night or 800 people three nights in a row. Our directors were on stage, we were on stage, and we will be on stage until the final curtain is closed Saturday night. If we can give up all for 60 nights, can't you give it back to us for only one night?

For those of you who love our shows and wouldn't miss them, HURRAY! (We love you too.) But please, try to bring others with you because we don't get sets, scripts, music or costumes free, and it would be a sad thing for the annual production to be written off as unsuccessful. It just has to pay for itself.

Finally, if you just don't fit into any of these categories, please think of your duty as a citizen. This show involves many different people: The art department designed sets and from their sketches have grown the most fantastic sets you've ever seen, built by the classes and actors. We actresses have painted, cleaned, put out posters and even hammered a bit, while the dancers suffered sore muscles and bruises, and the theory class transposed music. Then there are the directors. They teach school, keep up their families, and still supervise all our construction, staging, music, costuming and all of the millions of headaches that go along with each of these.

Are we all just crazy? Don't think so. We were simply handed a challenge and we accepted it. Now we're handing you one. Will you accept?

News Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. William Payne of Clarendon visited in the home of Mrs. W.R. Franklin last weekend.

Sunday visitors in the home included Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Counterman of Happy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Franklin, Mrs. Larry Lane and daughter Angela, Mrs. Ida B. Fortenberry and great-granddaughters Janis and Jennifer Brooks.

Dr. Enid Bates will instruct interested persons on Puppetry begining Sunday at 6:00 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church. The special interest session is one of six being offered at the church through the month of February.

Puppetry Sessions Begin Sunday

The facinating world of puppets and the different ways of constructing them will be taught Sunday at 6:00 p.m. in rooms 34-35 of the First United Methodist Church by Dr. Enid Bates and Mrs. Earline Moreman.

Puppets may be made out of many various materials such as paper plates, light bulbs, folded paper, paper sacks, socks, sticks, boxes, or papier-mache.

The puppet projects may be made and used in scouting, churchwork, or schools.

"Through the puppet children can live in the skin of any character they choose," Dr. Bates points out, "because they are no longer limited by their own physical and environmental characteristics".

"Puppets give children the magic to put into words and actions and sounds their wonder, their sorrows, and their joys. In this way they can get out of the realm of the possible and look back on the real to get a greater perspective of the dimensions that give their life form and communication," she noted.

The workshops that will begin Sunday will be used as a type of laboratory where adults and children may work together. The workshop will be held through the end of February.

The puppets may serve as a type of family experience and lets people be themselves. The creative sessions are open to the public.

Dr. Ruth Lowes is in charge of the over-all church program which includes five other special sessions.

Buffs Meet Pokes In Colisuem Saturday

The West Texas State Buffaloes, determined to earn a post-season tournament invitation, meet Hardin-Simmons Saturday night and Seattle Monday night at the Amarillo Civic Coliseum as part of a five-game home stand this month.

Encouraged by status victories over Cincinnati last Saturday night in the Ohio city and Monday night against Weber State at home, the Buffaloes will carry a 12-6 won-lost record into the Hardin-Simmons game.

Coach Dennis Walling's sophomore-studded team whipped Cincinnati 94-83 and Weber State 70-67 in overtime to avenge a season opening loss to the Wildcats at Ogden, Utah.

Against former Missouri Valley Conference member Cincinnati, 6-foot-7 junior college transfer Steve Davidson struck for 27 points and 13 rebounds as the Buffs led by as much as 22 points in the second half.

Ray Golson was only one point behind Davidson in the scoring race and 6-5 sophomore Ralph Houston contributed 17 points and 10 rebounds.

In the rematch with Weber State, Golson led all scorers with 22 points as the Buffs outscored the Wildcats 6-3 in the overtime period for the triumph. Davidson again led the rebounders, but only with seven.

A pleasant surprise for Walling was the play of Glen Fletcher, 6-3 junior college transfer from Crane, Tex., who got his first starting assignment of the season. Fletcher scored 11 points and was tough on defense.

Hardin-Simmons, which meets Texas-Arlington at Abilene Thursday night, should bring a 9-9 record into the West Texas State game. The Cowboys defeated the Rebels 81-75 at Arlington early last month.

However, the Cowboys had the services of 6-7 senior Cliff Harris at that time. Harris, who led Hardin-Simmons in scoring last year and was averaging 24.5 points and 15.8 rebounds this season, completed his eligibility with the fall semester of the present school year.

The Cowboys lost to New Mexico State 75-57 on the road Monday night as 6-8 John Hall, Harris' replacement, failed to score.

Charles Ray Williams, 6-5 junior who was the top rebounder a year ago, has taken over as the scoring leader. He nearly hit his 23 points a game average against New Mexico State.

The only other Cowboy averaging in double figures is 6-2 sophomore Steve Loos, a good outside shooter with a 12.1 average. He got 18 against the Aggies.

The Seattle Chieftains should come to Amarillo with a similar season mark. Seattle takes a three-game winning streak and a 9-8 record to Houston Saturday night.

The Chieftain's victory string was built on consecutive home triumphs over Weber State 74-70, Creighton 97-96 in overtime and Long Island 84-73.

West Texas State has lost its four previous meetings with Seattle, including an 81-74 setback there last year.

Eastern Star Plans Supper

Mrs. Connie Hernandez will superintend the preparing of a Mexican supper to be served by Chapter 105 of the Order of Eastern Star Saturday from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Canyon Community Center.

Profits from the meal will go toward funds for the new Masonic Hall on Ninth Avenue. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. They may be obtained by calling Mrs. Iverson Leake, finance chairman, at 655-4441, or by contacting a member of the order. Tickets are to be available at the door as well.

The menu is to consist of cheese enchiladas, chicken tacos, beans and pork tamales. Mrs. Hernandez will make the tamales personally.

Commission To Present Governor's Certificates

Members of the Texas Industrial Development Commission will meet with interested groups at the Canyon Community Center Mar. 9 at 8 a.m. to consider information submitted to the commission by the Chamber of Commerce.

Individuals who aided in submitting information are to receive certificates signed by Governor Preston Smith and representatives of the commission.

Facts gathered will go into a computer in the commission's Austin headquarters, where they will be available to interested businessmen and industrialists.

JV Cagers Win Trophy In Tourney

The Eagle JV lost in the opening round to Borger junior varsity 61-49 and then went to Perryton Friday night to defeat the Ranger junior varsity 69-50.

The returned to the Phillips tournament Saturday and defeated Pampa 49-47 in the morning game then whipped Dumas 51-41 Saturday night.

High point man in the Dumas game was Billy Bob Taylor with 19 points. James Johnson had 12 and Eddie Jacobs and Fred Grona each scored 8. Gary Gerber scored 4.

Going somewhere? Or been? The Canyon News wants to know about it–and so do its readers.

The recent cold snap brought a winter wonderland to the Johnny McBroom home at 903 Seventh Avenue. Water sprayed on evergreens froze into icicles making for a natural Christmas tree a month late.

WT Ex Treats Natives In Tiny Jungle Hospital

CHAMPASSAK . . . The barefooted old man shuffled slowly across the diamond patched clinic floor, dropped to his knees, then pulled himself into a chair facing the white-jacketed young man.

"Sambydee," this native of Laos uttered, with hands pressed together prayer-fashion. "Sambydee-bah, how are you?" replied Dr. Gene Griffith, native of Texas, and the reason this man had walked four days.

Dr. Griffith is a graduate of West Texas State University.

The old man's answer came via an interpreter. He was worried. A week before he had fallen into fire and felt nothing. The local witch doctor could not give him an answer. He knew the western doctor could.

Dr. Griffith began testing reflexes, then pinching flesh. Results were negative. He used a needle to poke chest, arms and legs. The patient sat motionless and unfeeling. The doctor smiled to hide concern. The prognosis was leprosy. But only after confirming tests would Dr. Griffith deliver the news that would render this man an outcast in his own land.

This was not the first leprosy patient Dr. Griffith had diagnosed. Nor is it likely to be the last. Such medieval illnesses are one reason Dr. Griffith works in Laos. Another reason is to fulfill a childhood dream.

Gene Griffith was 14 when he discovered Dr. Tom Dooley. A pioneer in tending the sick and needy of Southeast Asia, Dooley devoted seven years to this humanitarian work before dying of cancer at age 34, ten years ago this month. "I always assumed I would become a physician," Griffith recalls. "But only when I began studying about Dr. Dooley did overseas medicine become my goal. He became my idol. When he died I promised I would follow his example."

It took 13 years to keep that promise. First he completed medical training at the University of Texas, Galveston. He practiced bush medicine in Uganda, Africa, for nine months, then took an internship at Grant Hospital, Columbus, Ohio. Completing this, Dr. Griffith applied to the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation, a nonprofit organization formed shortly after Dooley's death to perpetuate his work and ideals.

Assigned to Champassak, a province in Southern Laos bordered by the Mekong River, Gene quickly adapted to primitive living and medical conditions. The tiny jungle hospital to which he was assigned functioned without electricity, x-ray, laboratory, and often without adequate medical supplies. As a result, the local medecin chef (chief of medical services for the province) treated as few as 18 patients per week.

"We try to present new ideas on how the Lao can improve the facilities, as well as provide additional drugs. When we first arrived there were only 20 beds in the hospital. Now there are 36. Most impressive, though, is that after working there a month the Dooley team was seeing nearly 1200 patients per week in the outpatient clinic!"

Patients suffer such 15th century disease as plague, typhoid, cholera, beri-beri and yaws. Predominant illnesses are malaria and worms. It is not uncommon for a patient to suffer three of our illnesses at once.

As bleak as the health picture seemed, Dr. Griffith soon learned the Lao are grateful for any medical help they can get, despite the outcome. He remembers the night a child with an advanced case of malaria was carried to the hospital: "I worked like a dog to save him. I would walk to the hospital two or three times a night to check him. But nothing I did helped him. It was just too late. The child died. This was my first loss and I worried the father would report that the white man's medicine was bad. When I went to the hospital the next morning the father was standing at the steps to touch my hand and thank me for caring for his child. I knew then I wouldn't be ill-judged for losing a patient, but that my presence and attempts to salvage something — anything — would be appreciated."

"However," Dr. Griffith continues, "not all moments are rewarding." Cultural habits and the lack of a common language can impede proper health care. "One day a child caught his toes in the wheel of an ox cart. His big toe hung only by a thread of flesh, but I managed to sew it back on. I told the mother to bring the child to the hospital daily to check circulation. When she finally did come five days later, the child's toes had become gangrenous. Since we don't have operating facilities I recommended she take the child to Pakse (35 miles up the Mekong by boat). She could not afford the trip, so I gave her money. When she came to the hospital a week later the child's entire foot was gangrenous. Rather than helping her child she had used the money for gambling. I could not make her understand her child might die because of her. I referred her to the medecin chef, hoping he could get the point across."

Important as patient care is, the Dooley Foundation serves another vital function. "Our main goal is to train the Lao to help themselves. We do not come as a permanent fixture. We train them to take over the program we set up. When they are sufficiently skilled, then we move on to areas of greater need."

Since arriving in Champassak last July, Dr. Griffith has trained one Lao student in basic medical care. Today Mr. Somme, a 20-year-old native of Champassak, accompanies Dr. Griffith on morning rounds, while during clinic he diagnoses and prescribes medication.

Foundation medical teams also undertake to upgrade medical care. When the Dooley team arrived in June, tuberculosis patients wandered free throughout the hospital, while tubercular mothers shared narrow plank beds with one to three children. To halt contamination the medical team established an isolation ward, then schooled the Lao staff in the contagious nature of the disease and the need for isolation. Today when Dr. Griffith dons a mask to enter the tuberculosis ward, Lao medics hastily copy him. Only in breaking with centuries of tradition can the gentle Lao hope for improved health conditions.

There is one tradition Dr. Griffith has not succeeded in changing. When the Lao sense death they carefully steal the patient from the hospital during the night to return him home to die. "The problem is these people are not equipped to diagnose," Gene sighs. "Last week a patient began vomiting blood. American physicians are trained to cope with this. But before I had a chance to help, the patient was gone. And, of course, because he didn't get proper treatment at home he continued hemorrhaging and finally died. If they had permitted him to stay here he would be alive today."

The Dooley Foundation does not confine medical programs to the village hospital. Instead they deliver care where and when the need is great. To do so, each week Dr. Griffith and his staff of nurses, medical and x-ray technologists, and Lao medics board Showboat, an American houseboat-turned hospital clinic, which travels the Mekong to remote villages along the banks.

In a recent trip to Ban Done Dahn, a rural village, Lao medics preceded the Dooley team to assure their countrymen that these westerners came "to help, not harm," that medical equipment was not military weapons but tools that would deliver health. Only after shy villagers adapt to these fair-skinned medics can they begin the examinations and medical procedures to save their lives.

Prime obstacles in delivering health care are ignorance and tradition. "The people of Southeast Asia are about 200 years behind us in their knowledge of what makes health," cites Foundation president, Dr. Verne Chaney. "The greatest service we can render is to diminish this gap."

That's a large order. The people of Laos have yet to learn the reality of a germ or the threat of contaminated water. To them the Mekong River is their highway, bathtub, laundry and sewer. Yet, when they are thirsty, it is their source of drinking water. The Foundation works to alter bad habits and to cure resulting illnesses. But, in a land of three million people and only 28 native physicians, it's a big job.

Fortunately they are prepared for it. Since 1961, when the Foundation was formed by Dr. Chaney, a thoracic surgeon and coworker of Dr. Cooley in Cambodia, medical teams have battled for life and improved health in Vietnam, Laos, India and Nepal. Based at 442 Post Street, San Francisco, the Dooley Foundation operates solely on voluntary contributions of dollars and supplies. 1971 marks the tenth year of service to the sick and underprivileged of Southeast Asia.

Dr. Griffith's full days in Laos end in quiet contemplation. "I watch the sun sink behind the mountains, and try to picture the happiest thing that has happened during the day. It's usually a small thing. The Lao seem to have something to offer me through their examples and their loving relationships to their fellow man."

A reflective young man, he readily shares his motto. "Dreams long dwelt on amount to prayers, and prayers wrought in faith come true." To work with Dooley was his dream.

Is he happy?

"I could do this another 50 years," he smiles. Then he moves toward the tiny jungle hospital that seems a perfect setting for his 14-year dream to come true.

The only western doctor in Champassak, Laos, Dooley Foundation's Dr. Gene Griffith exhibits natural affection toward the gentle Lao. Dr. Griffith is a graduate of West Texas State University.

Hartman presented his company's plans at a meeting of the city zoning and planning board Monday night.

Joe Gidden, a member of the board, said he thinks the mobile home park will enhance the residential area rather than detract from it.

"I think it would be a lot better view than the sewerage disposal plant," said Gidden. "The fences would keep that from being visible from the residential area."

Hartman said his firm has already received a favorable feasibility report from FHA for financing.

He was told that he would need to prepare a plat of the area before further action could be taken by the zoning and planning commission.

Former Buffalo Quarterback Dies

HANK WASHINGTON

Spencer "Hank" Washington, 25, West Texas State University quarterback sensation in the mid-1960s, died Saturday in Hartford, Conn., of cancer.

Services will be Thursday in Los Angeles, Calif.

Quarterback for the Buffaloes in 1965-66, Washington earned the nickname "Missileman" with his fantastic passing game. He still holds all WTSU passing records.

In his senior year, the 6-foot-4, 210-pound Washington completed 163 of 281 passes for 2,107 yards. Seventeen of those passes were touchdowns. Against Pacific that year, Washington netted 470 yards passing.

Washington was the 1966 recipient of the Kleinschmidt Award, an annual citation to the most valuable player.

The Los Angeles native joined the New York Giants professional football farm system after college. He was playing for the semi-professional Hartford Knights when doctors discovered the cancerous condition of his bladder more than a year ago.

Washington is survived by his wife Rose, an Amarillo native, and a son Roy, 7.
